A School Counselor's Guide to the South Carolina Legal System and Laws that Impact Children

Children have special needs and are treated differently than adults in the court system. This course is designed to inform the school counselor about various laws that impact children, from juvenile criminal charges to abuse and neglect, so that counselors will have a better understanding of the impact of these laws on the student population they serve. The course provides an overview of laws affecting children and issues that counselors are likely to encounter. Lectures, discussions and projects will focus on the juvenile justice system, abuse and neglect, school specific laws, child interview techniques, and mandatory reporting.
